Q: Why do open graphs have more share and unshare events? Why do open graphs (or the network badges) often have more share and unshare events than does the share button on the site homepage? While trying to understand how this works, I created a simple jsperf to demonstrate the discrepancy. The graph button is adding more events than the share button. The results seem strange, but I understand there's a UI concern. A: The share button is a special button. If you share a post, the link for the post is posted on Facebook as an information or photo on behalf of the page. That's why there are more share events. The share button is meant to be just that, a button. My name is Eddie, and I'm almost out of nowhere. Almost. This was my second year of running for Congress. I've been lucky, in that not only do I have great friends in the Democratic caucus, I also have the backing of one of the largest unions in the country, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. I have also had the privilege of being
