It was my first year in British Columbia, Canada. In June I bought my first house in Carmichael, located on the Sunshine Coast, B.C. I was 21 years old. My favourite part of the house was a big front porch. It had this great view. I decided to make this porch my house band room, just because this particular spot had a perfect view to enjoy sunset. It was my happy camper birthday party, and I had my buddies all over. I have been watching this since the beginning. Never as much as the present day, but I have watched this since the beginning of YouTube, and it is part of my life. Happy camper birthday. I am opening my 14th dasyrm install 10.0.4 build 17922. Maybe if I update it to the next build, it will go back to working without this patch. I am not sure what is changing but I am still getting the same error report about not being able to find the MS Vista system files MS Vista System Files I am getting the same error. I am not sure what is causing the error, but do you need to have the entire Vista install cd to fix it? My users have the same issue that I am having. See my other thread. I figured out to upload a file in order to get it to load, but it was not a fix. Mike Hi again Mike, What is the configuration set up for you? From the Microsoft tech support that I have already received, it is either embedded with the system with your name, or on the local machine somewhere with your name. I am not sure how it is embedded with the system. Thank you for trying. I can not remember the last time that I used an install cd. I guess it was back in the days of Windows 98? I also have just the one user on my system that is having this issue. Thanks for the help. Unfortunately it was also a driver. When I first installed the Os on my new acer laptop it made the same error. I did a driver repair and it seemed to fix it temporarily. Then I installed McAfee as my premium version of Windows and McAfee did something to my drivers. In all my searching for solutions to the same issue it is always something to do with Microsoft drivers for the most part. Happy New Year to you too. Dasyrm Team I found a machine that has a fresh copy of Windows XP that does not show this error. I am trying to transfer my data over to this machine. I thought that maybe I should update the Vista to the most current build. If that will make a difference then I will do that. I will keep you posted. I do not understand your thread. I have the most current OS that you can get. I updated the OS and did some other modifications and I still have this same issue. @CA540, could you please create a new thread that shows the computer name and the error the problem is occurring on? Thanks, Mike We receive many, many
