In the past, refrigerator cabinets were manufactured with fixed hinge and latch positions for attaching the handle of a sliding door to the refrigerator door. In order to accommodate the handle of the sliding door of a built-in refrigerator to be used in varying locations of refrigerator cabinets, it was necessary to provide adjustable hinges or brackets for attaching the hinge to the refrigerator cabinet. There are many problems and disadvantages to fixing a refrigerator door hinge assembly to a refrigerator cabinet. The cost of providing an adjustable hinge assembly is expensive and the requirement for such an adjustable hinge assembly is burdensome to install and requires considerable time to adjust the hinge assembly for varying positions of the refrigerator door handle relative to the refrigerator door and cabinet.Vitamin D and calcium interaction in preventing osteoporotic fractures: a systematic review and meta-analysis. To examine the association between serum 25-hydroxyvitamin D [25(OH)D] levels and calcium levels with the risk of osteoporotic fractures. We systematically searched MEDLINE, EMBASE, and the Cochrane Library from January 2000 to March 2015. We selected observational studies with a prospective or retrospective cohort design. Two independent reviewers screened and selected the studies. The odds ratios (ORs) with 95% confidence intervals (CIs) of fractures associated with 10 ng/mL increments in serum 25(OH)D levels (25(OH)D [0.10 ng/mL]) and 10 mg/dL increments in serum calcium levels (calcium 0cc13bf012
